Introduction

The American Association of University Women has become increasingly concerned that greater amounts of financial aid in higher education have been awarded to men than to women. Many women seem unaware of the financial resources available to them and, thus, few apply for such aid. This guide to various financial aid opportunities in higher education has been compiled as an information resource primarily for women. While most of the programs described here offer aid for women and men, those most responsive to women have been particularly included.

This updated version of Educational Financial Aids divides financial aid offerings according to educational level: undergraduate, graduate, postdoctoral, and internships/traineeships. It has also been expanded to provide information about loans and additional financial aid publications. Applications and further information for each program may be obtained by writing to the address listed under the name of the organization, unless otherwise noted.

Another source for information on financial aids is the financial aid officer at your educational institution. This person determines your eligibility for the institutionally funded programs and can direct you in your search for funds outside of the institution. You are also encouraged to seek information from your religious denomination, companies, professional associations, and local community service clubs; many of these groups offer grants and/or low-interest loans.

We hope that the information in this guide will serve to advance women as scholars, professionals, and leaders.

Loans

This section provides information on the federal loan programs that are specifically geared for the undergraduate and graduate student. It is important to remember that a loan is not a grant because it must be repaid with interest. Loans are available only to those students enrolled at least half-time. It is always advisable to seek guidance from your financial aid officer.

NATIONAL DIRECT STUDENT LOAN (NDSL)

Available from: Financial aid officer at participating schools. Eligibility: Neediest undergraduate and graduate students as determined by the financial aid officer; US citizen. Total Aggregate Loan: $6000, undergraduate student; $12,000, graduate student. Interest rate: subsidized by federal government while in school and during grace period; three percent for former borrowers continuing in degree program; four percent for new borrowers or to those returning to complete or start a new degree program after break in schooling. Grace period: Six months before repayment begins. Insurance fee: None.

GUARANTEED STUDENT LOAN (GSL, Insured and guaranteed by federal or state agency)

Available from: Banks or state guarantee agencies. Eligibility: All students pending approval of bank or state guarantee authority; application includes section to be filled in by financial aid officer who recommends amount of loan and certifies enrollment, expenses, and resources. Total Aggregate Loan: Dependent undergraduate, $2500 yearly, $12,500 total; independent undergraduate, $3000 yearly, $15000 total; graduate or professional, $5000 yearly, $25,000 (including undergraduate loans) total; effective 1/1/81. Interest rate: Subsidized by federal government while in school and during grace period; seven percent for former borrowers continuing in degree program; nine percent for new borrowers or to those returning to complete or start a new degree program after break in schooling. Grace period: Six months for nine percent loans; 9 to 12 months for seven percent loans. Insurance Fee: Any amount up to one percent of loan collected before dispersal of funds.

PARENT LOAN PROGRAM (Part of the GSL program)

Available from: Banks or state guarantee agencies. Eligibility: Parents of dependent students. Total Aggregate Loan: $3000 yearly for each child in college; maximum of $15,000. Interest rate: Nine percent. Grace period: 60 days. Insurance fee: Any amount up to one percent of loan collected before dispersal of funds.

HEALTH EDUCATION ASSISTANCE LOAN (HEAL)

Available from: Financial aid officer at a health profession school who recommends participating HEAL lender. Eligibility: Full-time students in the following doctoral degree programs: medicine, osteopathy, dentistry, veterinary, optometry, podiatry; graduate degree in public health; bachelor or master of science in pharmacy. Total Aggregate Loan: $10,000 yearly, $50,000 total; pharmacy students limited to $7500 yearly, $37,500 total. Interest rate: Not to exceed 12 percent annually. There is no federal subsidy so interest is payable while attending school, unless lender and borrower agree that interest will accrue and be compounded at least semi-annually. Grace period: Nine months after formal training ends, including internship and residency programs. Insurance fee: One-quarter of one percent to be paid prior to dispersal of loan funds.

NURSING STUDENT LOAN PROGRAM

Available from: Accredited schools of nursing education. Eligibility: Full- or part-time student in nursing program (diploma, AS, BS, or MS in Nursing); US citizen or permanent resident. Total Aggregate loan: $2500 yearly, $10,000 total. Interest rate: Three percent, subsidized by federal government while in school and during grace period. Grace period: Nine months. Insurance fee: None.
